Health Language Inc. Selected As Firm Most Likely To IPO

Venture Reporter Names Health Language As One Of The Firms Most Likely To Go Public

Aurora, CO, Mar 27, 2003 – Health Language, Inc., the world’s leading supplier of medical vocabulary and concept-based software server technology, today announced that it has been listed by Venture Reporter magazine as one of the Top 25 venture-backed companies most likely to have an Initial Public Offering (IPO) within the next 24 months. HLI’s lead investors are Lehman Brothers Venture Capital, East River Ventures and Radius Ventures, all of New York City, New York. Other investors include Empire Capital, Westport, CT, and Saffron Hill Ventures, London, UK.

“Being selected as one of the top 25 companies by Venture Reporter comes on the heels of continuing successes in the marketplace,” commented George T. Schwend, CEO and President of Health Language, Inc. “We have established a core business through partnerships with flagship companies in the healthcare information technology field. We are expanding our overseas presence. We are prepared for significant growth ahead.”

Health Language’s LE™ “language engine” is a revolutionary technology that enables physicians, nurses, insurance companies, payors and others to interact and share medical information at a deep relational level despite varying terminologies. LE, based on a patent-pending knowledge management model, is currently the only software available to the healthcare industry that can accurately relate complex medical terminology from disparate databases of controlled medical vocabularies.

LE has been adopted by multiple leading healthcare IT vendors, including Per-Se Technologies, Inc. Cerner Corporation, and iSOFT Corporation, to name a few, as their core medical language management and integration framework.
