Newchurch Limited partners with Health Language for U.K. Government initiative

Language Engine Software LE™ Chosen For Terminology Services

AURORA, Colorado – June 17, 2003 – Newchurch Limited, one of the UK’s leading suppliers of information services to the National Health Service (NHS) has selected Health Language Inc., language engine technology LE™ to provide Terminology Services. Newchurch Ltd specialises in providing integration and application services in the primary care sector and is currently implementing in South Warwickshire, as part of the NHS’s Integrated Care Record Service (ICRS).

“Terminology services will be at the heart of the NHS’s ICRS and are therefore vital for the success of the NHS’s National Programme for Information Technology,” said Kingsley Manning, Founder and CEO of Newchurch Limited. “Health Language, with their proven and world beating technology was therefore the obvious partner.”

“Newchurch is providing an important ingredient for the NHS’ National Programme,” said George T. Schwend, CEO & President of Health Language, Inc. “We are pleased that they are integrating our LE™ technology into their revolutionary electronic patient record demonstrator project.”

Health Language’s LE™ Language Engine is a revolutionary technology that enables physicians, nurses, insurance companies, and others to interact and share medical information at a deep relational level despite varying terminologies. LE™, based on a patent-pending knowledge management model, is currently the only software available to the healthcare industry that can accurately relate complex medical terminology from disparate databases of controlled medical vocabularies.
